ARTIST STATEMENT

As liturgical artist and design director with the Greg Lewis Studios, a free-lance practice, I am actively engaged in planning and creating permanent artworks for local, regional, and national clients in publishing, architecture, interior design, health care and liturgical environments. In addition to my 50-year contemporary art & design career, I have taught art studio courses at Concordia University - Portland for 23 years and have co-founded the library's Art & Culture Program and have led art and architecture tours to London and Paris. I hold an Associate of Science degree in Commercial Art and a Bachelor of Science degree in Visual Communications Education from Western Washington University in Bellingham, Washington. I take a multi-use approach to my art and design décor furnishings. A simple drawing or sketch becomes a painted mural, bronze sculpture, giclée print, stained glass window, and a folding screen and much more. "My goal has always been to create contemporary artworks that would challenge the viewer, as well as touch the human spirit."
